Graduation Rates:
High School Completion

• Most students who entered Grade 9 in 2008 or later did not have a local diploma option for graduation.

• Despite these higher expectations, the statewide graduation rate increased again slightly for the 2009 cohort.

• The graduation rate for the 2009 cohort (74.9%) is about nine percentage points higher than it was for the 2001 cohort (65.8%), which means that about 20,000 more students graduated in June 2013 than in June 2005.
Domains of College and Career Readiness

- Core Academic Knowledge & Skills: Defines the academic knowledge and skills students need to be successful in college and careers.
- Key Behaviors & Attitudes: Specifies the non-cognitive, socio-emotional knowledge and skills that help students successfully transition from high school to college or careers.
- Career-Specific Knowledge & Skills: Describes the career-specific opportunities for students to gain the knowledge, skills, and competencies they need to pursue and succeed in their chosen career.
Academic Readiness for College and Careers

• Too few students exit their fourth year of high school with academic readiness for college or the workforce.

• This is true, regardless of the definition of Academic Readiness:
  – The percent of students who graduate with higher scores on the English and a math Regents Exam: 37% of the 2009 cohort, or – The percent of students who graduate and complete the more rigorous and comprehensive coursework required for the Advanced Designation diploma: 31% of the 2009 cohort.
Academic Readiness for College and Careers (cont’d)

• To earn an Advanced Designation diploma, a student must – complete additional coursework in a language other than English (LOTE) or Career and Technical Education (CTE) or the Arts and – pass two additional Regents Exams in math and one additional Regents Exam in science.

• The percentage of students who complete the Advanced Designation diploma has remained relatively flat over the years.

• Large achievement gaps remain, particularly on the Advanced Designation diploma.
The Path Forward

• The Board of Regents continues to advance an educational reform agenda with the goal of ensuring that all students are college and career ready.

• The graduation rates announced today, covering the cohort of students who entered Grade 9 in 2009, do not yet fully reflect the impact that the Regents reform agenda will have on student outcomes.
The Path Forward (cont’d)

Critical aspects of the reform agenda that are expected to prepare students for college and careers include:

• Implementing Common Core standards, curriculum and instruction aligned to the standards, and statewide assessments that measure student progress on the standards;

• Supporting instructional data systems that display student achievement and help teachers and principals improve their practice;

• Recruiting, developing, retaining, and rewarding effective teachers and principals;

• Turning around the lowest-achieving schools.

Current ELL includes students who were identified as ELL during the school year of their last enrollment.

One-Time ELL includes students identified as ELL in any school year preceding the school year of their last enrollment (excludes students who are Current ELLs).*

Never ELL includes students who were never reported to receive ELL services.*

* Data are available for the 2005-06 to 2012-13 school years only. Therefore, students who received ELL services prior to grade 5 (prior to 2005-06 for students in grade 12 in the 2012-13 school year) will not be identified as One-Time ELL.
2009 Cohort Outcomes on Two Aspirational Performance Measures (APMs) are Reported for all Districts and High Schools.

1. Advanced Regents Diploma Percentage APM
The percentage of cohort students who earned a Regents Diploma with Advanced Designation (22 units of credit, 7-9 Regents examinations at 65 or above, and advanced course sequences in languages other than English, CTE, or the arts).

2. ELA/Math APM
The percentage of cohort students who graduated with a Local, Regents, or Regents with Advanced Designation diploma and earned a 75 or greater on their English Regents examination and earned a 80 or greater on a math Regents examination.

Outcomes on APMs are significantly lower than the overall graduation rates.
We will report APMs for schools and districts while college and career-ready graduation requirements are phased in for students.
NYSED will update these APMs as new research findings become available and as Regents Exams begin to measure the Common Core Learning Standards.

Although the ELA/Math APM remains a useful within-year comparison against performance benchmarks and across schools and districts, this measure is not directly comparable across cohorts, in part because of the different math Regents exams that were introduced and retired during the 2007-08 to 2009-10 school years.

*One-Time ELL status is available for the 2009 cohort only. Data are sourced from 2005-06 to 2012-13 school years only. Therefore, students who received ELL services prior to grade 5 (prior to 2005-06 for students in grade 12 in the 2012-13 school year) will not be identified as One-Time ELL.

Andrew Beiter

For the Year 2014 Louis E. Yavner Teaching Award for Distinguished Contributions to Teaching the Holocaust
and Other Violations of Human Rights

Andrew Beiter, as a middle school teacher in Springville, New York and a member of the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum Regional Education Corps, you have demonstrated your commitment to raising awareness of human rights violations. Kara Kane, a parent, wrote, “By studying documentation of history’s most tragic chapters and seeking to understand their connection with current events in the world today, Drew is making students part of a greater solution: preventing and ending human rights abuses in the future and making the world a brighter place for us all.”

As the founder and advisor of the Springville Human Rights Club, you have not only raised student and community awareness for human rights violations around the world, but also raised tens of thousands of dollars to donate to underprivileged countries and human rights causes. Former student, Rainah Umlauf describes the experience, “for the first time in our lives, the other students and I began to feel that we did matter, that we weren’t too young or small, and that we could help.”

Your work extends beyond the school, with the development of the annual Summer Institute for Human Rights and Genocide Studies (www.summerinstituteofbuffalo.org), which offers teachers and students in Western New York an opportunity to learn and to become empowered. IAmSyria.org, the interactive website developed by participants in the institute, is just one example of how the work of the institute continues long after the program ends.

Your work spans across the world with the development of the Educators Institute for Human Rights (www.eihr.org). This program for Rwandan teachers conducted in Kigali, Rwanda helps teachers to understand the Holocaust and genocide and how to teach these topics to students. As a result of the institute, there is a network of supportive educators, the Rwandan Genocide Teachers Associations that has over 100 members.

You have received numerous honors for your work. These include national winner of the 2008 Irena Sendler Award for Repairing the World, the 2009 Toby Ticktin Back Award for Holocaust Education, the 2009 New York State United Teachers Local Leadership Award, and a recipient of a 2010 Fellowship for the Lowell Milken Center for Tolerance in Kansas. It is therefore with special pride and with great pleasure that the Board of Regents honors you, Andrew Beiter, as the 2014 recipient of the Louis E. Yavner Teaching Award for educating others about the Holocaust and other violations of human rights.

Dennis N. Banks

For the Year 2014 Louis E. Yavner Citizen Award
for Distinguished Contributions to Teaching the Holocaust
and Other Violations of Human Rights

Dennis Banks, you have been devoted to the preparation of future teachers so that they can promote human rights and tolerance in their classrooms throughout their teaching career.

As Chair of the Secondary Education program of SUNY College at Oneonta, you have developed and planned an annual Social Justice Day focusing on human rights issues in which all future secondary teachers participate. According to Raymond Siegrist, Associate Professor, during this annual event “students from every discipline gather together to listen, interact, reflect, and plan how to become more active for social justice. Their plans include ways to engage issues individually, in their classes, and for the school community.”

Allison Weller, a former student who is now a teacher and district mentor coordinator for Copiague Public Schools writes, “Had it not been for his inspiration, encouragement, and sincere compassion for others, I may not be in the position I am in today to promote tolerance and understanding to future generations. Dr. Banks single-handedly opened my eyes to the injustices of the world, but perhaps more importantly, influenced me to fight to try and change them. Consequently, I have tried to teach my students to do the same.”

You have shared your commitment to furthering human rights education through your publications, such as “Lights! Camera! Action! Using Film to Teach Human Rights Concepts” published in the Social Science Docket and “Teaching Human Rights Across the Curriculum” published in Time and Place. You have presented at the workshop presentations at the National Council for the Social Studies annual conference as well as the New York State Council for the Social Studies. You were invited to participate in the national conference “Building a Strategy for Human Rights Education in US Schools” at Harvard Graduate School of Education in September 2011 which launched the new network of Human Rights Educators-USA.

It is therefore with special pride and great pleasure that the Board of Regents honors you, Dennis Banks, as the 2014 recipient of the Louis E. Yavner Citizen Award for educating others about the Holocaust and other violations of human rights.
