The advisory council was charged to issue a report on October 1, 2015, with recommendations on:

- (a) Guidance for use of a statewide online and blended learning network;
- (b) Best practices and model school district policies to inform implementation of an online and blended learning program, including broadband access;
- (c) Academic programming suited for online and blended learning;

- (d) Partnerships with institutions of higher education and other relevant stakeholders for workforce opportunities using online and blended learning; and
- (e) A review of teaching and professional development policies and practices.

Recommendation

The Online Learning Advisory Council recommends the Board of Regents works collaboratively with the Commissioner of Education, Legislators, and Executive to support and implement recommendations that are part of the Council draft report as follows:

Recommendation #3: The Online Learning Advisory Council recommends that the state adequately staff and support NYSED's Education Technology capacity and resources. The purpose is to bring forward innovations in online education and educational technology.
