Background Information

The quality of the preparatory experience of aspiring teachers in New York State can vary significantly. In developing our plan under the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) to ensure that all students have equitable access to effective instruction, the Department relied on recent research which shows that the quality of the preparation that aspiring teachers receive is a key factor in determining whether those educators enter and remain in the profession.¹ There is also an important relationship between educator preparation and positive effects on student outcomes.²

New York's current field experience and student teaching requirements have been in effect since January 2000. (Currently, each candidate must do, at a minimum, two 20-day placements or a single 40-day placement.) Since then, there has been a national trend to increase clinical practice in teacher preparation programs. In 2010, the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education Blue Ribbon Panel report placed clinical practice at the center of teacher preparation, providing teacher candidates with the opportunity to connect theory with practice.³ The U.S. Department of Education, Council of Chief State School Officers, and American Federation of Teachers joined the call for high quality clinical practice in teacher preparation programs.⁴ The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education Clinical Practice Commission recently released a report to help the field develop a common understanding of clinical practice and stated that, “clinical practice serves as the central framework through which all teacher preparation programming is conceptualized and designed.”⁵

As a result, states are following the guiding principle that more clinical experiences—intentionally constructed in partnership between P-12 and higher education, and with a focus on quality in addition to quantity—are better in teacher preparation programs. For example, as of July 2018, Louisiana requires a one-year residency, with 180 hours of clinical experiences prior to it. Effective September 2018, New Jersey is requiring 50 hours of clinical experiences and 175 hours of clinical practice (225 hours total) prior to the full-time semester of student teaching. By 2015, 34 states had moved to require a clinical practice placement of 10 weeks or longer, including all of New York’s neighboring states.⁶

Accordingly, building on the recommendations of the TeachNY Advisory Council and the edTPA Task Force, the Department convened a Clinical Practice Work Group in June 2017 to explore current practice and make recommendations for changes if deemed appropriate. The Work Group was composed of members from the P-12 and higher education communities from across the state (Attachment A) and met eight times from June 2017 through March 2018 to develop recommendations for updating the regulations.

The Work Group developed recommendations, which were presented to the Higher Education Committee of the Board of Regents in May of 2018 (Attachment B). The proposed regulation amendments are based, in part, on those recommendations.

Proposed Amendments

The proposed amendments to Sections 52.21 and 80-3.7 of the Commissioner’s Regulations are designed to create greater coherence with other statutory and Department initiatives related to ensuring that all educators have the knowledge and skills necessary to meet the needs of all students. Specifically, the amendments further align the Commissioner’s Regulations with requirements related to the Department’s federally approved Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) plan.

Proposed Amendments to Section 52.21

The proposed changes to teacher preparation programs include:

- Strengthening the Department’s expectations for collaboration between teacher preparation programs and their partner schools and districts by requiring them to establish, maintain, and review Memoranda of Understanding or similar collaborative agreements to systematically improve teacher preparation and the teaching and learning for all involved in collaborative clinical experiences;

- Requiring the student teaching experience to be at least a full semester (at least 14 weeks), full time, and in alignment with the daily schedule and annual school calendar. Candidates pursuing more than one certificate title, may complete two placements each of at least 7 weeks. The student teaching experience must be designed to provide candidates with opportunities to hone their practices in alignment with the New York State Teaching Standards and shall carry the number of semester hours required to obtain full-time status at the institution to ensure qualification for financial aid.
- Exempting certain experienced teachers from the 100 clock hour field experience requirement and the full-semester student teaching experience, and requiring that they instead complete at least 50 clock hours of student teaching. This exemption would apply to candidates who have previously completed an approved New York State teacher preparation program, those who hold a National Board certificate, and those with at least one year of effective teaching experience under a valid New York State or out-of-state teaching certificate. This change streamlines the regulations for already-certified teachers, which currently require different amounts of hours for field experiences and student teaching, depending on the certificate title.
- Strengthening the Department's expectations for both school-based educators (cooperating teachers) and university-based teacher educators (supervisors) who work with teacher candidates during clinical experiences.

Proposed Amendments to Section 80-3.7

Section 80-3.7 of the Commissioner's Regulations outlines the requirements for certification through the individual evaluation pathway. Currently, the coursework requirements for the individual evaluation pathway for certification are based on the educational study requirements for New York State approved teacher preparation programs, including student teaching. As a result, the student teaching requirement for the individual evaluation pathway for certification in Section 80-3.7 needs to change to align with the student teaching experience requirement proposed in Section 52.21.

The proposed changes to Section 80-3.7 would require candidates who apply for a certificate through the individual evaluation pathway to satisfactorily complete a 14-week, full-time, college-supervised student teaching experience. They could satisfactorily complete 70 full-time school days or 140 half-time school days as an employed teacher, provided that the employment must include at least one continuous period of no fewer than 35 days.

Timeline

The proposed regulatory amendments to student teaching described in Section 52.21 would apply to candidates who first enroll in a registered program in the Fall 2022 semester or thereafter. Therefore, the first cohort of students graduating from a traditional four-year program that will be impacted by the proposed amendment is the cohort graduating in the 2025-2026 academic year. Those entering a two-year master's degree program leading to an initial certificate will need to complete the clinical experience by 2023-24.

This timeline provides teacher preparation programs with sufficient time to make revisions, if needed, to align their program requirements with the proposed clinical experience requirements.

Consistent with the requirements for certificate holders graduating from a traditional registered program, the proposed regulatory amendments to the individual evaluation pathway outlined in Section 80-3.7 of the Commissioner's regulations would apply to candidates applying for certification on or after September 1, 2026.
