What do I do now?

If you identify discrepancies, please work with your District or School Data Coordinator to correct errors in your Student Management System.

Check the rosters of each of your course sections. If you do not find any discrepancies, you do not need to take any further action.

We appreciate your time. Check back regularly for new or changed data provided by your District or Charter School. Reports are refreshed every Monday.

Education Data Portal

Shared Learning Collaborative (SLC)

- Facilitated by the Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO); CO, DE, GA, IL, KY, NC, LA, MA
- Shared learning infrastructure (SLI) – Build it once so that scarce resources can focus on providing value, options, and choice for teachers, students, and parents
- Engaged Vendors – Wireless Generation, Applied Minds, Double Line Partners, Intentional Futures, etc.
- Expert Advisors – Michael Lomax, Randi Weingarten, and national leaders in open-source and education technology
- Data Privacy and Security – New York and its schools/districts retain sole ownership of their data; New York data security protected by legally binding agreements

P-20 Longitudinal Data System: Partnering Agencies

Empowering Schools

Informing Schools – “Where are they now?” Reports

- Initial report design will borrow from NYCDOE based on data from CUNY, as well as other regions of the State
- Report post-secondary outcomes back to P-12 high schools
- Incorporate National Student Clearinghouse data, which includes information from over 4,000 higher education institutions
- Include more detailed information from SUNY/CUNY, including targeted course information
- Data can also be used to inform college- and career-readiness policies and activities
